

BERGS®
POTTER

A/W CATALOGUE 2026

Some objects quietly become part of everyday life. A pot placed by the kitchen window. A vase brought out again and again for gathered branches and seasonal flowers. Pieces that move through the home alongside changing routines, celebrations, and slower moments throughout the year.

As the season unfolds, homes, terraces and gardens are shaped by living greenery and thoughtful details. Herbs within reach in the kitchen, potted trees framing outdoor spaces, tables gathered with flowers and foliage. Handcrafted objects in natural materials bring tactility, calm, and character to the spaces around us – chosen not only for their function, but for the atmosphere they create and the stories they carry over time.

This season, Doma introduces a sculptural new presence in raw terracotta – generous, grounded forms created for growing greenery on a larger scale. Viva offers a gentler approach to everyday plant care; a self-watering herb pot designed to support healthy growth and keep fresh greenery close at hand.

Across these pages, timeless craftsmanship and natural materials come together in collections shaped to live alongside plants and people for years to come. Pieces made to be used, gifted, moved around, and returned to – season after season.

BRING MORE LIFE AND COLOUR INTO THIS WORLD

Bergs Potter was born in 1942 during one of the bleakest periods of World War II. In a small ceramics shop in the Nørrebro neighbourhood of Copenhagen, Victor Berg set out to bring a little more life and colour into this world. He began adding plants and flowers to the shelves, and the unique combination of floristry and pottery soon made the shop a popular place to visit.

Today, Bergs Potter is devoted to crafting designs for people and plants to grow in harmony. We are rooted in the belief that plants have the power to calm our senses, reduce stress, and bring poetry into our everyday lives, allowing it to flourish. With this mindset, we create timeless designs through traditional crafts. All made to last for generations.

Handcrafted with love

All of our pots, vases, and accessories are made by hand in small, family-owned workshops in Europe. In Italy and Portugal, generations of skilled artisans continue to shape our designs using time-honoured techniques – from wheel throwing and hand-pressing to careful moulding and glazing. We are proud to help keep an ancient craft alive. Every step, from forming to firing, is carried out with meticulous attention and deep respect for the material. Whether unglazed or glazed, each piece reflects the quiet rhythm of hands that know the clay – shaped by tradition and time. A subtle finger print, a slight variation in form – these are the quiet marks of the hands that shape.

Our glazed pots and vases are finished with rich glazes in a palette of enduring colours. Designed for indoor use, they feature drainage holes and matching saucers, combining beauty with thoughtful functionality.

Designed to live for generations

Our pots are made to live for generations. We avoid fleeting trends in favour of timeless forms that suit both modern and classic settings. Each collection combines Scandinavian simplicity with historic references, from the royal palace of Fredensborg to the flea markets of Montmartre.

Our protected signature designs are full of character and heritage. With a wide range of sizes and proportions, our pots are suited for shelves, tables, windowsills, greenhouses, balconies and gardens – and with waterproof saucers, they can be used indoors just as confidently as out.

If your plants could speak, they would tell you that there's nothing better than a quality clay pot. Proper drainage gives their roots room to breathe, and superior clay helps keep in the moisture they need.

BERGS POTTER

Breathing pots that age with grace

The raw terracotta pots are made from premium Gales-tro clay – a natural, mineral-rich material sourced from Tuscany. High-fired for strength and porosity, they allow roots to breathe and retain just the right amount of moisture, creating the best possible conditions for plant health.

During production, warm summer weather can leave delicate freckles on the clay. These sun-kissed marks are a natural trace of the making. With time and use, a soft patina begins to form. Shaped by evaporating minerals from soil and water, it tells a story of growth, seasons, and the beauty of ageing.

Dig into our universe

We believe that living with plants improves the quality of life. Bergs Potter is devoted to crafting designs that help people nurture and care for their plants – and creating the best possible conditions for people and plants to thrive, grow, bloom, and radiate their beauty into the world. From earth to windowsill, our pots tell a story of craft, heritage, care, and growth. Let's grow.

D O M A

Doma means “home” – exactly what this pot offers: a grounded place where greenery can take root in both soil and soul. Its generous size allows for planting in both width and height.

Gently lifted on three small feet that accompany the pot, Doma balances stability and functionality, allowing water to drain freely and air to circulate beneath it. It is crafted from raw, unglazed terracotta in Rosa and Grey. The natural clay allows the pot to breathe and supports healthy roots, bringing a quiet vitality to the plant. Over time, the surface will develop a patina, shaped by sun, wind, water, and the changing seasons.

Doma is designed for planting in both width and height. Low, spreading layers can settle across the surface, while more upright forms rise above. Together, they create a natural balance. Doma is a home for growth. A home where plants can unfold – and take root.

VIVA

The name Viva comes from Latin and means “life”. Life, in all its green manifestations, is precisely what Viva is designed to nurture.

With its delicate, organic silhouette, Viva balances minimalist design with classical lines. Crafted from raw terracotta in Rosa and Grey, the pot itself rests on an integrated, spacious saucer. Hidden within the saucer is a water reservoir that ensures steady watering with minimal effort.

Viva is a self-watering pot with a discreetly concealed watering function. A fine wick connects soil and water, allowing roots to absorb exactly the amount of water they need. Culinary herbs with delicate leaves and compact growth, such as basil and parsley, thrive with this gentle watering from below. It keeps foliage dry and promotes strong, healthy roots. The subtly narrowed top supports the plant’s growth while reducing evaporation, and the breathable terracotta allows roots to breathe freely, helping prevent rot.

There is ample room to plant directly in Viva. Herbs are watered from below and stay fresh as long as there is water in the saucer. Viva brings life to the green – through a hidden vein just beneath the roots.

How to use Viva

1. Thoroughly moisten the pot and the wick.
2. Thread the wet wick through the holes in the pot.
3. Fill the saucer with water and place the pot on top.
3. Keep water in the saucer to prevent drying out.

FLEUR

Flowers have always been a source of inspiration – from the organic, flowing lines of Art Nouveau to the stylised patterns of Art Deco. The Fleur pot carries this legacy forward in a form that is both soft and architectural, classic and modern. Its subtle reliefs echo lilies, palm leaves, and irises, merging into a rhythmic pattern with a refined, geometric balance.

Just as Art Nouveau allowed nature's forms to grow freely in architecture and craftsmanship, Fleur provides space for plants to grow and flourish naturally. The upward-reaching patterns that adorn the pot mirror the plants' movement towards the light, reinforcing the connection between form and function.

The generous saucer is more than a functional detail – its deep form can hold ample water, ensuring optimal care for the plants. Its base reveals a quiet beauty, uniting aesthetics and function in perfect harmony.

With Fleur, plants find a home where the ornamentation of the past and nature's soft lines meet in a timeless interpretation of growth, beauty, and craftsmanship.

DELPHI

Named after Delphi – once considered the navel of the world – these pots are a quiet homage to wisdom, wonder, and harmony with nature. The Delphi Pot Series brings a touch of Mediterranean charm to the home or garden. Inspired by the amphora shape, an ancient vessel, this series embodies a seamless blend of historic form and modern life.

With their wide body and slender neck, the organic form of the Delphi pots cleverly reduces the evaporation of soil moisture, helping plants stay hydrated for longer. For outdoor use, the narrow neck naturally limits rainwater intake, protecting sensitive roots from overwatering. Each pot is paired with a matching saucer, ensuring a graceful transition between indoor and outdoor settings.

The Delphi pot's timeless silhouette evokes the elegance of antiquity – an enduring vessel where terracotta tradition and thoughtful design meet. Created by Pablo Dorigo, an Italian designer with a rich heritage from Italy and Spain, the Delphi series is shaped by his deep appreciation for archetypal forms and his Mediterranean roots – where terracotta, tradition, and timeless design are part of everyday life.

FLORITA

The Florita series is a celebration of timeless design and the beauty of nature, brought to life by designer, art connoisseur, and founder of the Danish jewellery brand Hand-crafted, Anders Forup. This exquisite collection includes three distinctive vases – a small round vase, a classic vase, and a striking floor vase – alongside a versatile decorative platter. Each piece is meticulously cast in hand-moulded plaster forms and hand-dipped in glaze, ensuring that no two are exactly alike.

Inspired by the rich legacy of Danish ceramics, the Florita series features intricate relief patterns that evoke the organic forms of nature. These abstract designs harmoniously blend feminine and masculine elements, making each piece a versatile addition to any interior. Whether displayed as a standalone sculpture or filled with flowers, the vases bring a sense of vitality and elegance to any space. The platter, with its dual-purpose design, can be used to serve food or as a striking wall decoration, enhancing the beauty of your home.

The Florita series embodies the timeless appeal of nature, with a design that is as enduring as it is captivating.

LILY

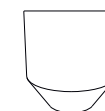

The Lily collection is a range of glazed pots and saucers that evoke the beauty of water lilies. A nod to H.C. Andersen's cherished fairytale "Thumbelina," these pots are designed to capture the enchantment of the fairytale of nature. Just as Thumbelina marvels at the beauty of flowers from her delicate lily pad.

The inspiration behind the Lily pot originates from designer Anne Hoff's vision of creating a soft, round design that balances simplicity with sophisticated detail. This vision culminated in a curved saucer that mimics the unfolding petals of a floating flower, perfectly complementing the clean lines of the pot.

This interplay of the matte pots and the glossy saucers, soft and hard, creates a distinct eclectic style that seamlessly integrates into any décor – whether it's modern, classic, or exuberantly ornate. The nuanced colour palette of the Lily pots ensures versatility, making it easy to match them with any interior.

KØBENHAVNER

The Københavner Pot has royal heritage and is one of the first pots designed by Bergs Potter. This noble pot is inspired by pottery made for the Royal Danish Palace of Fredensborg in 1860.

Years ago, Steffen Berg stumbled upon beautiful old clay pots at a former nursery and created the Københavner Pot, his very own interpretation of the pottery with royal origins. Today, the Københavner Pot is one of our most popular designs, and our potters still make it by hand in small family-owned workshops keeping the old traditions alive. The legacy of the Københavner Pot adds an element of regal elegance even when paired with the humblest plant.

The Københavner Pot range includes numerous sizes in Rosa and Nordic Grey terracotta, including three tall Rose pots designed to accommodate the rose plant's deep roots and need for growing space. It is also available in three sizes of a roomy low pot, which is great for experimenting with succulents, herbs, and bulbs in creative displays. The Københavner Pot is also available in a hand-glazed edition which comes in a variety of different shades - all inspired by the colours of classic Copenhagen.

The Københavner Vase is a natural progression of Bergs Potter's iconic design – the Københavner pot. Designed by the second generation of Bergs, Steffen Berg, it draws inspiration from the majestic pottery made for the Royal Danish Palace of Fredensborg in 1860.

Born in conjunction with a glass artisan workshop with a century of expertise, this vase is a tribute to accuracy and artistry. Each piece is crafted using the traditional technique of mouth-blown glass, which is skillfully sculpted into a mould while the glass is still aglow.

The Københavner Vase combines the elegance of royal pottery with the sophistication of contemporary glasswork, reflecting Bergs Potter's design heritage and the pursuit of exploring new materials. More than just a vase for flowers, the Københavner Vase is a statement piece that adds a touch of royal charm to any interior.

PANTHEON

The Pantheon pot pays homage to the iconic dome that soars into the sky with timeless grandeur at the Pantheon in Rome. Just as the Pantheon dome captivates with its geometric coffered ceiling, the Pantheon pots feature symmetrical rows of coffers delicately carved into the surface. These simple yet sophisticated patterns wrap around the slender cylinder in repeating patterns, bringing the stunning Pantheon dome to life.

Carefully crafted to capture the essence of classical beauty, each Pantheon pot can be seamlessly integrated into contemporary spaces. Whether adorning your indoor sanctuary or enhancing your outdoor oasis, these eclectic pots serve as stunning focal points, adding a touch of timeless charm to any setting.

Pantheon

The Pantheon Pot harmoniously embodies the spirit of classic architecture and is a hearty home for horticulture.

ATLAS

The Atlas Pot in sturdy terracotta, designed to stand on the shoulders of its saucer counterpart. Inspired by the legendary Titan Atlas, who carried the weight of the heavens on his shoulders, this pot is characterised by its repeating circular patterns of vertical lines, symbolising the arduous and perpetual task of its mythological namesake.

Much like the enduring spirit of Atlas, this pot is built to stand the test of time, promising longevity and resilience when cared for. Just as Atlas persevered in his celestial task, this pot will continue to thrive and serve as a timeless feature in any garden or home.

BELLE

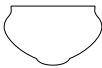

The Belle collection showcases sophistication and craftsmanship at its finest. The organic shapes are gracefully curved and sculpted, evoking a sense of sophistication, natural beauty, and harmony.

Meticulous handwork ensures that no two Belles are alike, adding to the collection's exclusivity. Each vase and bowl in the Belle collection is lovingly handmade on the potter's wheel by skilled artisans, resulting in a one-of-a-kind work of art. Made of Maiolica clay and glazed with a transparent, food-safe glaze on the inside, it can be used for both flowers and food.

The Belle collection merges the beauty of artisanal craftsmanship with classic elegance. A timeless design that will be cherished as an heirloom by future generations.

CELESTE

Celeste is a hybrid of a pot and a pedestal. The wheel-thrown masterpiece reimagines how to display and nurture precious plants. By combining the timeless elegance of a hollow pot with the versatile functionality of a pedestal, Celeste is designed to elevate your botanical haven to heavenly heights.

Handcrafted on the pottery wheel from premium terracotta, Celeste embodies the essence of traditional craftsmanship and durability. Its expertly sculpted hour-glass-shaped pot design creates an elegant and nurturing environment for plants. The waterproof saucer effortlessly doubles as a lid to transform the set into a pedestal or side table, proving the design's versatility.

SIMONA

Years ago, the romantic Simona Pot materialized in the head of Steffen Berg, as he strolled through busy and atmospheric flea markets in Montmartre. Now our charming and chic Simona Pot points to the aesthetics of the old Latin Quarter and can easily be imagined in the classic French homes and gardens of the 19th century.

Our sweet Parisian “femme” Simona has small pearls sitting neatly on a tight string along the upper rim. Adorned from every angle, she steps elegantly into the light, enhancing her beautiful and subtle details, ready to spread ‘amour’ everywhere she roams. Today, our petit ‘pot de fleur’ is gently shaped by the skilled hands of our experienced potters.

Since Simona is like a classic girl of Montmartre, one might doubt her interest in deep, saturated colours, but look again, and you will find her more glowing than ever with the thick glaze enhancing all her details. Mon amour, je t’aime!

HELENA

The scalloped clay fringe along the top edge of the beautiful Helena Pot gives it a soft and classic look. North of Rome in the Lazio region rests the small town of Di Bolsena, a place once filled with potters and the home of Roberto Rosso, one of Italy's greatest potters. Inspired by ancient Greek designs, Rosso created pottery with distinctive clay borders, a popular feature through out the 1800s.

Fascinated by the idea of a decorative rim, Steffen Berg created our Helena Pot with the remarkable scalloped border to acquire a soft yet classic-looking flowerpot. Today, our Italian potters pay homage to Rosso's masterpiece every time a new Helena Pot is moulded.

Helena is available in two additional varieties. A tall rose pot and a low herb dish.

EMILIA

The Roman Empire was the inspiration for the Emilia Pot with the signature rope that gently rests on the top edge of this tall, slender pot. Since the 1800s, the Italian city of Modena in the Emilia-Romagna region of Italy has been renowned for producing this type of embellishing rope for sundry decorative purposes.

An original design by Bergs Potter and made in Tuscany, the Emilia Pot is a tribute to the region and the use of time-honoured techniques.

A D A

Ada is the traditional name for 'Adornment'. And is there anything more adorning than flowers in bloom or an abundance of fresh herbs? ADA is a wheel-thrown dish that complements every possible shade of floral adornment.

With its soft organic shape, the Ada dish is the perfect base for herbs and flower bulbs, encouraging you to create a fragrant centrepiece of freshly grown herbs for a beautiful table setting. The dish is specially moulded to appeal to all our senses with nature's own ornaments and aromas.

The dish comes with a saucer and therefore makes a perfect botanical decoration for any table, or an inviting seasonal decoration for the hallway console. ADA is able to hold both uncontrolled wildness and organic elegance - all at the same time.

MODENA

The genuine and modern design is a perfect match for the balcony, patio, and courtyard. Modena, our grand cylindrical flowerpot, is designed to house even the largest plants, with Berg’s signature stamp marking each pot as a symbol of quality.

The Modena pot is available in both raw terracotta and a durable, glazed finish. Crafted specifically for outdoor use, the raw terracotta version features a drainage hole, ensuring optimal drainage and aeration for plant roots—a perfect fit for balconies, patios, and courtyards.

For indoor use, the Modena cover pot in hand-glazed Emerald Green offers a striking presence. Designed without a drainage hole, it’s ideal for homes, heated greenhouses, and orangeries.

DAISY

When we think of Daisy, we think first and foremost of Her Majesty the Queen of Denmark, Margrethe II. Among Danes, it is an open secret that since she was a little princess, her close family and friends call the Queen by the endearing name Daisy.

Our Daisy series embodies the strength, elegance, and classical lines of the Queen. The name and design of the series also refer to the family of the perennial daisies – a gracious and eternal flower. And so, our Daisy collection represents both the Queen of Denmark and a flower favourite for many.

We like our Daisy tall, slim, and elegant, as well as short and curvy. Daisy comes in a classical standing pot and a slim vase covered in luscious Emerald Green glazing.

JULIE

When the designer Ninetta Mariani created the Julie Pot, she exclaimed: "It can't be done simpler than this!" This was in Milan in 1960, and today we can only concur. Perfection is achieved when there is nothing left to take away from a design. In this simple yet charming pot, your plant will always be the centre of attention. Our largest Julie Pots are wheel-thrown and stamped by hand – persistently preserving an ancient craft.

LARGE FLORA

The magic of nature and its ability to transform spaces, as well as the flourishing desire to surround oneself with towering indoor plants, have inspired the birth of the Large Flora, a masterpiece born from the unembellished elegance of the Flora design, which is now elevated to unseen scales.

With diameters ranging from 50 to 70 cm, these impressive pots redefine the art of indoor gardening, becoming the centrepiece of your living spaces. Accompanying these majestic pots are equally stunning saucers – sold separately and carefully crafted to hold the substantial weight of your planters – ensuring both beauty and functionality when used indoors. When placed outdoors, we recommend lifting the pots slightly on discreet pot feet, allowing for natural drainage and year-round resilience.

CAMPANA*

The Italian word for 'bell' - Campana - perfectly describes the shape of this majestic outdoor pot. The Campana series has the largest planters produced by Bergs Potter for 'al fresco' use. The plant pot has a clean yet full-bodied appearance - and the rounded edges give Campana a soft look. If you are looking for the largest planters in Bergs Potters collections, then Campana is the answer. The largest available pot is an impressive 105 cm in diameter.

By hand, premium clay is rigorously packed into colossal casks to mould each of the large pots, and subsequently, the pots are dried and slowly fired for several days to reach the ultimate robustness of each of the decorative vast plant pots.

Campana

Thanks to patience in production methods and premium clay, the Campana collection is naturally resilient to frosty weather.

ACCESSORIES

All sizes & colours in our Cove family

COVE

Cove serves as a consistent and dependable source of hydration for indoor plants and is inspired by the natural water retention abilities and elegant shape of the cereus cacti, native to arid regions. The cacti have evolved remarkable water retention abilities to survive in harsh, dry climates.

Easy to use. Simply bury Cove partially in the soil of medium- to large-potted plants, fill it with water, and let the water seep down to the roots of the plant.

Mimicking the shape of the cereus cactus, characterised by thick, ribbed stems specifically adapted for efficient water storage, the design ensures that Cove blends botanically with your plants while providing essential hydration.

The porous structure of the material allows water to seep slowly, maintaining consistent soil moisture levels and promoting healthier plant growth. Available in three sizes – 300 ml, 450 ml, and 700 ml.

TERRACOTTA SAUCERS

All the clay saucers from Bergs Potter have been given a special silicone treatment to ensure that the saucers are completely waterproof without losing the raw look and feel, and making our raw terracotta pots perfectly suitable for both indoor and outdoor use.

Saucer

Our Raw Saucers match the Københavner, Helena, Emilia, Elizabeth, and Flora collections.

Ø50 and Ø60 Rosa
